ABOUT THIS COURSE

This course introduces the student to the Creole language. Through the use of varied teaching approaches and exercises, the student will develop listening comprehension skills as well as speaking, reading, and writing skills.

The student should be able to ask and answer simple questions, as well as perform simple daily routines such as: Expressing aspirations and intentions, talking about preferences; expressing possibility and impossibility, necessity and permission; Asking and answering questions about school and work; talking about likes and dislikes, about things that interest or do not interest you; talking about actions that occurred in the recent past; as well as talking about future travel plans and more.

New material is presented through a variety of formats.

COURSE PRESENTATION:

This course uses the natural method of language-learning. The student will learn Creole the same way one learns their natural language as a child - by hearing the language and then repeating what is heard.

The main focus of the course is to develop conversation skills: reading, speaking, writing and listening comprehension. Grammar will be taught and discussed but will not be the main focus of this course.

New vocabulary and phrases will be introduced with the use of dialogues, interviews, reading passages, letters, brief newspaper articles, questionnaires, photographs, maps and other means relating to everyday situations relevant to the experiences of today's students.
